

EIGHT WIN HONORS IN CORN CLUB

Verne Collins Gets Award of Gazette Cup for the Highest Standing.

Verne Collins, aged 12, son of Alphonse Collins, a farmer of the town of Evansville, is the winner of the Gazette trophy cup, presented to the winner of the Rock County Corn Club having the highest percentage of points as fixed by the state corn club management for the contest. The winner raised the corn on an acre of old pasture land and produced 72 bushels of Silver King, white Wisconsin corn. His markings are, yield, 22.2 per cent; cost, $29.55 or 20.35 per cent; exhibit, 4th place, 17 per cent; seed, 10 per cent; a total percentage of 75.45 out of a possible 100 points.

Next to Verne Collins comes Everett Mead of the town of Fulton, son of Mrs. Alice Mead, Edgerton, R. D. 5, a boy of 14, whose crop of Golden Glow corn places him at the head of the four prize winners in that class. His percentage is 74.10 only a step behind Verne Collins. Everett wins the $10.00 prize. His markings were, yield, 22.10 per cent; cost, $22.10 or 25.10 per cent; exhibit 1st place or 20 per cent; story second in merit or 14 per cent; total 74.10. So it can be seen that a boy does not always win all the four points for the 100 per cent. Here are the winners in Golden Glow and Silver King, four each:

CORYDON F. WOODSTOCK WHO WINS THE BEST STORY OF THE CROP

I joined the Corn Club so as to learn to be a better farmer when I am older. I chose my corn clover seed because I thought I would get a better crop of corn. I got my seed from J. K. Arnold, Secretary of the club. He gave me an acre and then when we harvest our corn we have to save out ten good ears and send them off to the club. I never tested my seed because I never got it in time. The troubles of a corn grower are: The weeds, the worms, the grubbers, the crows and the corn. The points learned in corn growing are: How to pick the seed corn; how thick to plant it to get the best corn. Some suggestions I got from visitors and farmers are: Pick seed ears from stalks that have the most leaves and pick them about three feet from the ground. I plan to be in the Corn club next year and grow 100 bushels if possible. The way to win the contest is to work hard, do your own work, and keep corn in good shape when it is the best.

CORYDON F. WOODSTOCK.

16 yield, 72 bush, Standing 75.55. Awarded Gazette Cup and first prize of $10.

2—Harold Haxeto, town of Milton, Milton R. P. D. 11, yield, 59.4 bush, Standing 69.82.

3—Claire Mayhew, town of Magnolia, Broadhead, R. P. D. 1, yield, 60 bush, Standing, 66.69. Prize $3.

4—Bryanton Hagan, town of Clinton, yield, 60 bush, Standing, 59.4. Prize $2.

Four Golden Glow Winners.

1—Everest Mead, town of Fulton, Edgerton R. P. D. 5, yield, 49 bush, Standing, 74.10. Prize, $10. This boy received high marks and an excellence of his book and his record.

2—Corydon Woodstock, town of Newburg, R. P. D. 2, yield, 46.67 bush, Standing, 69.30. He is the one boy who received 15 points, the highest number allowable under the rules of the contest.

3—John McArthur, Emerald Grove, Janesville R. P. D. 1, yield, 50.5 bush, Standing 65.53. Prize $3.

4—John Fossmoen, town of Fulton, Edgerton R. P. D. 5, yield, 43.8 bush, Standing 64.82 per cent, Prize $2.

Committee of Awards.

The standings and markings were made by the Assistant State Club leader, Miss Mildred Anderson, of Madison, W. K. Arnold, who had the contest in charge and who is secretary of the county Y. M. C. A. R. T. Glasco, county agent and J. K. Arnold, the Gazette. The real basis of the wards naturally is the yield but in a contest of this character there are four elements to

HOW EVERETT MEAD RAISED HIS GOLDEN GLOW CORN

I didn't know about this contest until our corn was planted. Then my uncle measured out an acre of his corn for me. He had seed from the year before. I dragged it before the corn came up, then after it was large enough I cultivated it four times and cut the weeds out with a hoe. About this time we went on the tour of inspection. In spite of the dry weather the corn grew the stalks and they were over ten feet high. After the corn was cut I helped shock and husk it. It was being hung by hand and stacked the stalks. Sometimes it is hard to get a good stand of corn. If the weather is cold and wet the seed does not germinate.

Then too the cut worms sometimes kill the young plants. The yield would have been much higher if we had more rain for it was very dry just at the time the leaves were forming.

India Will Soon Be Ready for Home Rule, Says Major Webster

Major Charles R. Webster, for the last six years engaged in Y. M. C. A. work in India and Africa, on a tour of inspection of Y. M. C. A. work in this country, visited in Janesville Wednesday and left yesterday noon for Beloit. Major Webster spoke to the Rotary club, board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. and the H. Y. club while in the city.

He told of the situation in India, which he said is gradually overcoming the caste system, and of the great need for workers among the natives.

Mr. Webster declines to say anything about his experiences with Gen. Jans Smith through the East African campaign during the world war where he was in charge of the Y. M. C. A. operations in the field. During the war he was in Afghanistan with the British forces.

Was Newspaper Man.

A native of Australia, where he was in newspaper work, he came to the United States and graduated from the University of Chicago. He was director of playgrounds for two years and athletic instructor at Lake Geneva school.

He went to India in 1913, entering into the Y. M. C. A. work in Bangalore. He assisted in the work at the training school for native officers and was promoting an adapted style of physical work among the natives.

From 1915 until the close of the war he was in charge of the Y. M. C. A. work in India and held an honorary rank of major in the British army during that time. He was twice mentioned in dispatches and is now being taught by native secretaries the American games, after being trained in the Y. M. C. A. school.

SEEK THEIR SON GONE SINCE 1915

Mr. and Mrs. William Daly, 1212 S. 1st St., Chicago, have appealed to local authorities for help in locating their son, Fred, 29, who left home five years ago from his home in Chicago and has not been seen since. The Red Cross, American Legion and War Department have all offered information but have been unable to locate him.

Daly left the family home in 1915 to go to Detroit to work. The family has since moved to Chicago. Daly is a printer and has been in the printing business since he was 15. He is 5 feet 7 inches in height, weighing about 150 pounds, has light brown hair, blue eyes, and a scar on his left cheek.

He has a jolly disposition making friends readily, his mother said, "but his one falling is in writing letters."

"BIG THREE" SEND WARNING TO GREECE

Paris, Dec. 2.—French opinion is evidently gratified by the note sent to the Greek government by the premiers of France, Great Britain and Italy which yesterday, after a long and arduous day, was the first of the "Big Three" warning Greece against the restoration of Constantine to the throne.

"The three powers," says the Petit Parisien, "in signing this note, accomplished an act of deep political foresight, which will have a wide and salutary effect throughout the Near East."

The Dailly says that Georges Leygues, the French premier, has "told an indiscreet member of the cabinet" and even "Perrinax," political editor of the Echo de Paris, says the declaration is a "good beginning" of peace and tranquility in the Balkans. The cabinet has felt that the accession of Prince George, duke of Sparta, to the Greek throne would be the best solution of the existing difficulties and at the same time disclaimed any desire to influence the allied policy.

NONPARTISANS GET LICKING BY EQUITY

Society Defeats Dakota Crowd at Every Point—Long Calls Tittlemore "Liar."

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Milwaukee, Dec. 3.—Failure was written over the effort of the non-partisan league to capture the American Society of Equity and J. N. Tittlemore again covered himself with glory as a peerless leader and Parliamentarian in handling the convention of the state organization which concludes its work here today.

Not only the Equity but also the non-partisan league was absorbed by the non-partisan league of farmers in the state. E. C. Pomeroy, Winnebago county, Tittlemore, president of the non-partisan league, was elected president by an overwhelming vote defeating D. O. Mahoney, Vilanova, the non-partisan league candidate.

The new constitution amendments passed by a large majority. Any member or organizer of officer of any other farmers organization shall be barred from becoming an officer or delegate to any convention of the Society of Equity, and that "any officer of Equity who shall become a candidate for any state or county office shall resign his office and the office shall be declared vacant." This cuts out the non-partisan league entirely.

The question of Equity farmers precipitated the hottest scene of the convention.

Long Calls Tittlemore, "Liar."

Long Tittlemore went into a brief history of Equity's rise and fall during which he said that J. N. Tittlemore had asked that a receiver be appointed for the national union.

Long said in a deep, heavy voice from the rear of the hall:

"It was the voice of Mr. Long himself."

The challenge "Liar" turned the convention into a near riot which for a time threatened to end in fist fights.

Hundreds of delegates yelled their defense of Mr. Tittlemore. Hundreds of other turned toward Mr. Long and shouted "throw him out."

Alex. Rayburn, Pepin county, jumped to the stage, waving his arms and yelling:

"Fight in the Air."

"No man can call our president a liar and get away with it," Mr. Tittlemore pounded his gavel, and the uproar continued. By this time nearly every delegate in the hall was up and making threats. Many stood on chairs and shook their fists at Mr. Long.

"Liar!" called out a far because it takes a gentleman to do that," called out Mr. Tittlemore as he pleaded for order.

Groups of delegates started to move in the direction of Mr. Long, evidently with the intention of forcing him to leave the hall.

Paul Schenck, of Merrill, one of the older members, blocked the aisle to stop them. He waved them back with the words:

"Long isn't worth throwing out."

Climax of Strife.

After the delegates calmed down one of the Equity leaders had a quiet talk with Mr. Long, who decided to leave.

Throughout the recent stormy history of Equity Mr. Long and Mr. Tittlemore have been on opposite sides. The clash at Thursday's convention came at a climax to the internal strife in the society.

S. D. Livingstone was elected vice-president of the Equity society today over Frank L. McGowan, on a count which gave Livingstone 98 1/2 and McGowan 18 1/2.

The convention approved the appointment of a legislative representative at Madison during the session of the legislature. The board of directors will select its agent.

TOWN TOPICS

"Sixty City was a revelation to me," said Mayor T. B. Welsh upon his return from a six day visit there. "A town of about 75,000 it has all the appearances of a city of a quarter of a million population. It has one large hotel, the Martin, which is an imposing structure. It has several other good-sized hotels. There is one department store employing close to 500 people."

People used to get up by the poster's cry, then they waited for the alarm of the clock, but our particular friend jumps from beneath the covers at the foot of a silver horn.

"There's a woman lives across the street from me," he relates, "and every morning a taxi calls for her to take her downtown. That driver is an old tin-can of an affair and when it rattles to a stop and the driver screeches that horn, I know it's time to come out of it."

YOUNG ITALIAN IS TAKEN TO MADISON

Sam Obis. Arrested Here for Alleged Bootlegging, Faces U. S. Charge.

Arrested here two weeks ago as an alleged bootlegger, Sam Obis, Madison, was taken to that city Wednesday night by U. S. Deputy Marshal William T. Tilton after being arrested here by U. S. Court Commissioner Stanley D. Tallman. He now faces a federal charge of having violated the prohibition law. The young Italian was arrested here Nov. 19 by Night Driver John Barry, arraigned before Judge Maxfield the next day, and sent to county jail in default of $500 bail to appear for trial Dec. 13. Suspected by the police for several weeks as one of the chief means of transportation of alcohol into the city, Obis was watched for and apprehended on his way to the railroad station. He yielded after a short struggle and on his way into the city hall smashed on the sidewalk a quart bottle of what, it is supposed, was corn whiskey. Thomas Morrissey, chief of police, was summoned before the grand jury at La Crosse today to testify in the case against Young Obis. He left last night.

A SWEETHEART AT THIRTY

The Story of a Woman's Transformation
BY MARION RUBINCAM

CHAPTER XI

There was a slight change in Laura's manner after the day her mother told her that she had a "heart" the word in Laura's mind. This she had always considered as a nonentity, someone who did odd jobs about the house, someone her father supported—and this because I held no board at my brother's though I did as much work as a hired girl, who would have been boarded free and given a salary as well.

A dependent relative, or a dependent wife, often has all the disadvantages. For she gets no salary, and is expected to be grateful for her job as well.

My case of course was a little different. I had some money—only a hundred or so a year—as my share of the rest of the little house where I had been born. This I spent on the three children, usually for Christmas and birthday presents. Esther bought my clothes when she bought her own. Then I had the little inheritance that was to go towards sending Violet to college.

Violet had never treated me as a nonentity, and James had been kindly and tolerant. Few boys his age considered old maid aunts as useful creatures, but James was always very nice to me. Laura alone openly looked down upon me.

"It bakes the cake, I do it better than you," she said, and when we were planning a Saturday's work, or, "I'll scrub the porch. I can do it faster."

And so on, with many items of work. My ability to do beautiful darning was the only thing where I excelled her. Consequently, I had all the family darning, and there was always plenty of it.

The May days ran along. Violet had to be excused from all work at home, her time was taken preparing for the final examinations at school to be followed at once by entrance examinations for college. We had not yet decided which college she was to go to. And when the discussion came up, Laura's hostile feeling towards me grew rather marked, though I was after Esther's talk of the man who once was in love with me, Laura had shown me more respect.

"As long as I can do this at all, I want to do it right," I said one evening, "I'll pick up the books and catalogues piled before her on the kitchen table."

Escher and I were washing the dishes when Laura had gone outside to the springhouse to look after the milk and butter.

"So I'm going to college in New York," I continued, picking up one of the catalogues.

"Now I won't have you living alone in a city, and you barely 18," said Escher, who was argumentative at once.

Violet's blue eyes grew a black-blue, a trick I had noted she had when she was very angry or very determined.

"Thousands of girls go every year and don't get killed," she began sarcastically. "And I'm as old as some of them and have much more sense than most girls 18."

"Just the same, you don't go to the city alone," I said, "I'll take a col-lege in a small town or village, some place, and then I'll feel safe."

Violet's eyes flashed.

"Spend all your life in a little hole like this, Fannie, and then when I do have a chance to get out of it, spend a few years in a place not much bigger?"

"Then what?" I asked. "Come back to Henry Falls and spend the rest of my days here?"

"There's lots worse places than Henry Falls," Escher's anger was coming up too, and I began to fear that all the plans would fall through.

Strange to say, it was Jim who settled the question peacefully. He came into the kitchen filling his pipe as he walked—I remember how bent over he was; he had been working hard that day.

"Come to me," he began, reaching towards the match box on the wall, "seems to me since it's Escher's money that's doing this, it's Escher who should decide what to do with it."

He struck the match against the hot stove and lighted his pipe. "That settles it then," Escher said, shrugging his shoulders heavily. "Escher would give you the money if she asked for it. You can pick your college—I'm only your mother, I ain't got nothing to say about it."

The attempt at sarcasm was lost on Violet. She was all smiles and animation at once.

"Then it's one of these in New York city," she answered promptly. "And you needn't worry. Mother, Aunt Escher will go with me."

And as we all stared, Laura coming into the kitchen to join us, she went on.

"It costs much less to go as a day scholar, you save dormitory charges and lots of extras. That'll all be covered keeping us in some tiny little room near the college. Aunt Escher can look after me, and you won't have to worry—don't you remember she said she'd go if you wouldn't let me go alone. And if our money runs out sooner than I thought, I won't stay in college so long, that's all."

And that's how our busy plans commenced. As for Laura, she stared a minute, then remarked, "I don't see why Aunt Escher has to go. She wouldn't have any fun in a big city, she'd just be lost—she's too old."

Tomorrow—Commencement.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE:

Whenever I happen to be away around this time of year it's generally been your custom to take your pen in hand and let me know what you want and expect for Christmas. Up to the present writing you have failed to mention the subject, and I have been living in a mild state of fear and trembling.

Now Tessie I hope all this unusual silence on your part don't necessarily mean you're thinking up something hard. In other words, expensive. I'm a great believer in a man giving his wife as heavy a Christmas present as the traffic will bear. In other words, something that will put a pleasant strain on his pocket-book without actually eating away the leather.

So use the little old bean, Tessie, and ask for something safe and sane. Try not to overwork your imagination in the matter. Selling Daisy Canned Soups has ceased to be a business lately and has taken on the aspect of a fine art. When I sell a case nowadays by the exercise of pure logic and undiluted diplomacy I feel like standing off and admiring my work like Caruso in the photographs of himself listening to his latest phonograph record, because to put it conservatively, Tessie, I bet there's not ten men in the country could sell D. C. Soups in this territory. For one thing, the brand is too well known here.

I thought things would loosen up now that the election is over and everything, but it's just my luck that I happen to be in this southern territory where everybody is a rock-ribbed Democrat. So I can't even mention the election without sounding the death knell of the entire conversation. So you see, Tessie, unless something radical happens your present this Christmas will have to belong to the small but select variety. You can do the selecting part of it and leave the small end of it to me, Joe.

If you decide to give me a little present just to show the spirit is there, don't make it a tie and don't make it a shirt. Not that I distrust your taste but I've had experience in both lines, so remember, mix on ties and nothing doing on shirts. Love to self and child,

JOE.

RABBIT DISHES

Stewed Rabbit.—Cut rabbit in suitable pieces. Soak in salt water. Put into a stew pan with a little boiling water, fat and seasoning. Onion if liked is an addition. Cover and cook below the boiling point or in a fireless for two hours or until tender.

Rabbit Stock should always be used. It can be substituted for chicken stock in any recipe.

Rabbit Fricassee.—One rabbit (about three pounds), two or three tablespoons bacon or pork fat, one medium sized onion, three cups of boiling rabbit stock, one-half cup strained tomatoes, parsley, thyme, salt and pepper to season.

Soak rabbit in salted water and cut in small pieces, about two inches square. Put bones, etc., in saucepan, cover with cold water and simmer slowly for an hour. Add while cooking an onion, salt and pepper to season.

Sprinkle rabbit meat with flour, salt and pepper. Heat fat in a frying pan, add onion sliced thin and rabbit meat. Cook until well browned, stirring often. Add strained tomatoes, and seasonings. Simmer until the meat is tender. Thicken gravy if necessary and serve on toast or small baked potato.

Rabbit a la King.—Omit the tomatoes from the recipe for rabbit fricassee and add cream in its place. Also chopped green peppers and a small can of mushrooms or a few fresh ones.

Rabbit Croquette With Vegetables.—Three tablespoons of butter substitute, one small onion (chopped), one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one cup rabbit stock, three egg yolks, one and one-half cups cold boiled rabbit, cut in small dice, one-half cup boiled ham, cut in small dice, one tablespoon lemon juice.

Melt butter, add onion and cook two or three minutes, stirring constantly. All flour and seasonings and stir until well blended. Stir in stock slowly and beat to the boiling point. Add all the other ingredients except lemon juice, remove from fire and spread on a platter to cool. Shape, roll in flour, beaten egg and then in bread crumbs and fry a golden brown in deep, hot fat. Place in a ring around the edge of a hot platter and fill center with hot, buttered carrots, peas and cauliflower.

HE WONDERED.
"Hang it, man, if your liver has been stolen why don't you ring up the police?"

"I'm not worrying about the car. I'm worrying about how they made the blamed thing go."—Harper's Magazine.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Mrs. Thompson gets many letters from her readers discussing the merits of her column. Some of the readers disagree with her views and occasionally she gets discouraged, but a letter like the following cheers her and makes her feel that her conscientious efforts are worth while. The writer's name is on file on the original letter.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a constant and interested reader of your column; therefore you pardon me if I congratulate you on your good, sound, motherly advice that you give to each one.

When I tell you that I am a married man, considerably past fifty, with a family of grown children, some of whom are married, and that I have in my younger days come in contact and been associated with all kinds of people, you will see that I am in a better position to know and appreciate the value of your advice.

If those who do not need it now would clip out your column daily, study the letters and your replies and follow your teachings, there would be fewer unhappy marriages and less domestic discord.

I thought it might encourage you to know there are many like myself who do not come to you for advice that enjoy reading your column. Naturally I am more interested in the letters from "happy" people.

YOURS TRULY.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a widow twenty-eight years old and mother of two children, eight and three.

How could I invite a friend to our house without arousing too much gossip? I live with my mother. My friend is rather shy on that account. When I meet him, though, he speaks so nicely that I can't help but wish he would come some time.

I do not by any means want to be the topic of conversation among the people of our town, as it is a very gossipy place. But I am so someone and cannot go anywhere evenings because of no one to go with.

A READER.

Some time when you and the young man are talking and he seems very much interested in you, you invite him to come to see you. If he is as interested as you think, he will accept your invitation without further urging.

Do not think about what people will say. It is to be expected that they will have to talk when they see you having a caller. Their talk will be over, however. Being a widow it is all right for you to receive the attentions of another man.

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I have often read your department and wish to ask you some questions. What is a good remedy for blackheads? What do the names Katharine, Ann and Louise mean? Please tell me how many a girl of twelve years and a girl of fifteen years should weigh and how tall they should be? What is a good way to shampoo hair?

A simple treatment for blackheads is to bathe the face in warm soapy water every night, using a soft bristle complexion brush. Rub the brush over the face, washcloth and rub the latter well into the skin. Rinse the face well first with warm water then with cold, finishing with an ice rub.

Katharine means pure; Ann denotes grace, and Louise, feminine of Louis, means warrior.

Your weight depends entirely on your height.

Any soap containing lard makes a good shampoo. Be sure to rinse your hair thoroughly after shampooing.

WHAT SHALL I DO?

Answered by VIRGINIA PAGE

A Formal Farewell.
"Dear Miss Page—A friend of mine has been called away from a friend of hers with the letters P. P. C. in the corner. Will you tell us what this means?—Mrs. A. N."

These letters stand for the French words "pour prendre congé," meaning "to take leave." They are written in the lower left-hand corner of the visiting card and mailed to one's friends upon one's departure from a place.

Evidently your friend's friend was leaving the city either permanently or for the season and took this way of bidding a formal farewell. While entirely correct this form is not often used except by those who, because of official, business or social activities, have a great many acquaintances not all of whom they can pay a farewell call upon, but who are entitled to the courtesy of being informed of the departure.

When Cupid Makes a Good.
"Dear Miss Page—Will you tell us when and how we should announce our engagement?—Helen and Bob."

You may announce the engagement whenever you wish, but the sooner the better because secret engagements are never advisable unless made necessary by peculiar circumstances. It is Helen's right, of course, to decide when the happy fact shall be told, and naturally her family must be told first in order that their sanction be obtained. Then Bob's family are let into the secret. Then you may tell the friends and party of some sort—or Helen may just tell a group of her girl friends and trust them to spread the news around—or notes may be written

DRESSMAKING HELP.

When Making Your Own Sewing.
If you require a skirt longer on sides and back than in front, it is difficult to get it even around the bottom unless you have someone to turn it up for you. But by the following method you can manage just as well alone:

Take a table that is high enough to strike you just below the hips and at the top, putting on the belt. Put it on, then be sure to stand straight and turn around slowly and carefully by brushing against the chalked edge of table. Take the skirt off and measure from chalk line down, making the same length all around. The extra length over hips on sides and back has been allowed for above the chalk line.

Apple Sauce Cake.—One cup apple sauce, one teaspoon soda, one cup sugar, one-half cup seeded raisins, one-half cup butter, two cups flour, one teaspoon of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg.

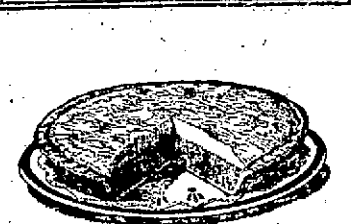

Cream butter and add sugar. Mix and sift flour and spices, reserving a little flour to mix with milk and add to first mixture. Add raisins last.

Fruit Desserts

with real fruit in them—bottled

Jiffy-Jell is a real-fruit dessert. A condensed fruit juice in bottles comes within the package.

We crush the fruit, condense the juice and seal it. So you get real fruit in plenty—not a mere fruit taste. That is how it differs from the old-time quick desserts.

It is rich in fruit. We use, for instance, half a pineapple to flavor one dessert.

Jiffy-Jell comes ready-sweetened, and acidulated with a real fruit acid. Simply add boiling water, as directed on package, then the flavor from the vial, and let cool. A package serves six in mold form, or 12 if you whip the jell. All for 15 cents. The fruit alone would often cost you more.

Lime-fruit flavor makes a tart green salad jell. Mint makes a rich mint jell.

Millions now enjoy it. Try it once and you will never again serve the old-time jells.

TOTRY STANDARD TESTS IN SCHOOLS

Local Pupils to Be Examined As to Alertness and Ability.

Same application of the standardized tests will be applied in the Janesville public school system according to statements made today by Superintendent J. O. Holt.

There have been a system for these tests planned for all students here—from kindergarten work to the senior class in high school—which will be under the direction of Miss Bertha M. Rogers, supervisor, who was graduated from Columbia university and specializes in school analysis work.

Classify Groups. These will be psychological tests for measuring native and acquired mental ability but in no instance will the entire aptitude of any student be judged solely on the test results. Such tests go a long way to determine the mental capacity of a child, and it is important to know the child's mental capacity in order to place him in the proper class. The tests will be given to all children in the public schools. The tests will be given to all children in the public schools. The tests will be given to all children in the public schools.

The first test to be put through in the high school will be the silent reading test. This test is given to all students in the high school. The test is given to all students in the high school. The test is given to all students in the high school.

Under no conditions will teachers be judged by results of these tests. The tests are given to all students in the high school. The tests are given to all students in the high school. The tests are given to all students in the high school.

Danger in Extremes. The application of the standardized tests has been to carry them to extremes. They are practical when used and only applied to the real values. It is certain that they indicate superior ability to learn and comprehend studies. Attention should be paid to bring the results of the tests to the standard but at the same time the rapid and fast learning student should be helped to proceed as fast as practical.

The methods of the war department in the army it appears did considerable to further standardized tests in the schools. Success results in their use in the service in grading men quickly and effectively.

OPPORTUNITY IN SMALL TOWNS FOR AMBITIOUS

Today the pace of opportunity in the small town. The business which may be done there is limited only by the ability of the man and the drawing power of the English language.

Out in Iowa there was once a country boy who loved to grow garden and eat and you know how boys like to eat. His father encouraged him in this inclination and he was soon growing wonderful flowers that his neighbors asked him to save them some seed.

So he commenced to sell seed. First a package here and there among his neighbors, until the idea came to him, "Why not go into the seed business?" There were people everywhere who were looking for honest seed and an honest man from whom to buy them.

Henry Field, that was his name, went into the seed business in his own home town. Last year he did a business of $1,159,092.61. His town of Shenandoah, has a population of 3,000 people. It is only a matter of twelve or fifteen years since Henry Field was investing $500 in the business and making his start. Out of the bulk of Field's business is conducted by mail, but that is no obstacle in the way of the small town.

In Thief River Falls, Minnesota, there is a country merchant who saved his business by using the mail order idea. His town has a population of 3,711 people. His business was drawn almost entirely from the surrounding country.

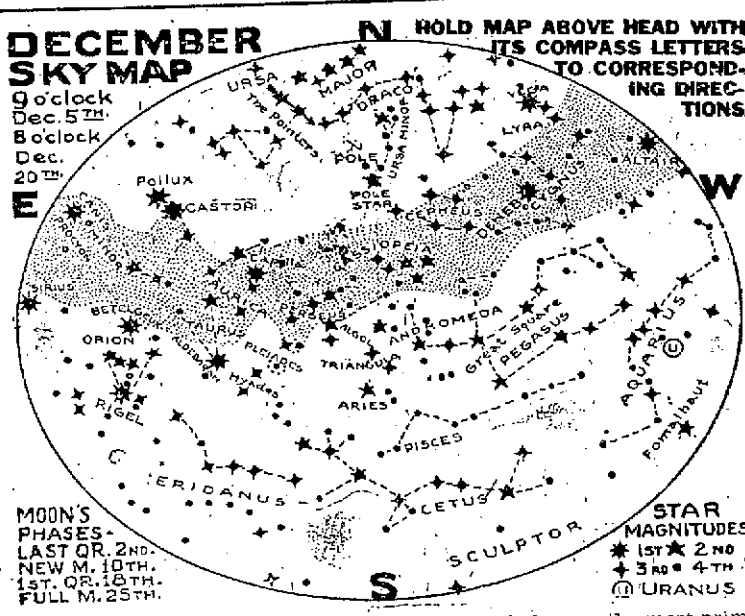

Last year he did a business from his town of thirty-seven hundred people in excess of one million dollars. There is a town in Indiana, Avilla, to be exact, which has a population of 6,000 people. Harvey Moore, a former barber, who is a furniture retailer there, does more than $1,000 a week the last year ago. He borrowed $700 on his home, bought a stock of goods for $1,450 and paid $500 down. Then he rented a store-room calling for $20 per month rent. Thus he started out with less than $200 working capital.

Last year he did a business of $90,000. He keeps a $25,000 stock of goods on hand. At Newton, Iowa, the Maytag Washing Machine company, a nationally known concern, is doing a business in excess of $6,000,000 this year. At Charles City, Iowa, the Hart-Parr Company, manufacturing tractors, saw-engines and other farm machinery, does a business running into millions. At Kellogg, Iowa, merely a tank station, is the Gould-Balch Valve Company doing business in all parts of the world and running into the millions annually. At Clay Center, Nebraska, a country boy started an incubator company which has sold hundreds of thousands of hatching machines all over the world. Leslie's Weekly.

THE HEAVENS IN DECEMBER

By DR. C. S. BRAININ, Of the Columbia University Observatory Staff.

The last month of the calendar year brings with it our 5 o'clock map which is not the very finest, but it is a good one for the naked-eye astronomer. We refer to the region of the heavens embracing the constellations of Orion, Taurus, the two famous Dog groups, Canis Major and Canis Minor. They occupy the eastern portion of the heavens at first and then, as the year advances, they move to the west. Their attractions are not less than eight stars of the first magnitude.

Three more first-magnitude stars, Vega, Altair and Deneb, are over the western horizon, preparing to set. In the far southwest can be seen Pegasus, another of the first magnitude constellations. The brightest star of the constellation of the Southern Fish, Soth, is in the fact that it is unable to place upon the map. It is the only star of the first magnitude which is not in the constellation of the Southern Fish. Soth is the only star of the first magnitude which is not in the constellation of the Southern Fish.

Orion, the Great Hunter. Orion is without doubt one of the grandest constellations in the entire heavens. It is the largest constellation, and it is the most prominent. It is the most prominent constellation in the entire heavens. It is the most prominent constellation in the entire heavens. It is the most prominent constellation in the entire heavens.

The northeastern corner is marked by a second-magnitude star called Bellatrix, slightly yellowish in color. In the fourth corner is only a third-magnitude star, called Saiph. Just about in the central area of this quadrilateral is the Belt, easily recognized, as it is marked by three stars of the second magnitude strikingly placed in that they are practically on a straight line, with the middle one half way between the outer two. In fact, the entire constellation, when once noted, is not to be forgotten on account of its formation and brilliancy.

Hanging from the Belt of the hunter is the jeweled scabbard, a line of stars extending a short way from the Belt in a southerly direction. Within the group is the famous Orion Nebula, visible without a telescope under the very best atmospheric conditions as a small, expanding in even a small telescope into an irregularly shaped incandescent cloud, occupying a fairly large area in the heavens and containing many stars. It is the very finest nebula visible with the smaller telescopes and is considered one of the most beautiful telescopic objects in the sky. Even a three-inch telescope will show it up nicely.

Recently there have been discovered in the nebula movements of its several different parts, and it is, of true, as astronomers believe, that the nebula is a collection of stars.

relaying the foundation of repentance and faith. The demand is to "go and sin no more." Building on the foundation of repentance and faith is also an exact art. It calls for the use of square, compass, plummet and level. So there can be no haphazard character building. All must be carefully planned and executed.

TIME TABLES PUT IN APPEARANCE AT RAIL OFFICES HERE

"Give me a time table, please." A young fellow walked up to the ticket window of the Chicago & Northwestern office here with such a request this morning. There was nothing old in his desire, the sign can't pass that he got what he asked.

When the railroad administration took over the railroads during the war one of the first things that was done was to cut expenses by putting out as many few time tables as possible. The way to learn about train schedules until now has been to go to the station and ask or make the inquiry by telephone.

At the Northwestern office the passenger may now get a pamphlet containing the complete passenger tables of the system. He may get a condensed time table for the famous western trains; or he may get condensed schedules of the trains on the local divisions. In addition, the highly illustrated booklets showing the advantages of traveling on the various lines are commencing to make their appearance.

"EAT MORE MEAT" CAMPAIGN IS ON

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Pointing out that wholesale meat prices were approximately those prevailing during 1914 and charging that he had nowhere found similar reductions in retail prices, Everett C. Brown, president of the National Livestock Exchange, told a meeting of livestock producers, packers and market interests that he believed the cause of decreased meat consumption lies in the retail end of the business. The meeting was called to instigate an "Eat more meat" campaign.

NO HOPE OF HELP FOR THE FARMER

they are asked to provide relief. Is there any certainty, they inquire, that Europe can take any more of our exports? Furthermore, the imports of goods bought by America and all other payments made to Europe show that we give Europe about four billion dollars less than we receive. As long as the difference between imports and exports stays at the tremendous total of four billions, the balance of trade in our favor, it is reasoned, will keep the rates of exchange very low and European credit correspondingly in bad shape. Incidentally without any suggestion of denials, some officials ask frankly how a tariff wall erected by the republican administration will help the situation. They ask how the difference between exports and imports can be reduced if it is proposed to keep European goods out of American markets.

No Tariff Bill for Democrats.

This much is certain, no tariff bill that is intended by the republicans to raise four billions of revenue will be approved by the democratic administration. For there seems to be a determination to stick to the present fiscal policy and leave it to the republicans to take the responsibility of reducing imports and engaging in a tariff war with Europe. Such view is being expressed not by the free traders, but by the government protectionists in the government, men who and who have fought at every turn the idea of free trade. They may be called moderate protectionists. It is admitted that protection for certain commodities will probably be decided upon by the republicans, but the belief exists that the day of a general tariff revision affecting all classes of goods in the same way that measures of yore were made has passed and gone.

"Studying" the Question.

The government is studying the economic situation to the exclusion of other considerations. The pleas for relief are pitiful, but so long as the power rests with the present administration it will not authorize loans to farm organizations or individuals.

How Much Do You Lose

When you spoil a baking of bread?

Of course you can feed it to the chickens—if you have them—but it's pretty expensive chicken feed.

Besides the flour, there are the yeast, salt, sugar, milk, shortening,—to say nothing of the gas or fuel used in baking and the cook's time—as well as the temper of your family.

All gone—into the garbage pail or elsewhere, unless you shut your eyes and swallow the stuff.

And then you commit slow murder on your digestion!

Pretty expensive flour isn't it if it spoils your bread and ruins the peace of your family?

Use Mother Hubbard

the flour that is absolutely guaranteed to be of perfect

CLEANLINESS, PURITY, and QUALITY and be sure of good bread.

And you use less of it in baking—getting considerably more bread for your money.

OSHKOSH IN ARMS OVER GAS SERVICE

Want Janesville to Join Fight for Increased Heat Units.

Up in Oshkosh the gas consumers are raising considerable howl over the recent reduction of the British Thermal Units, permission for which was given recently by the railroad commission to the Wisconsin gas companies. They find it takes longer to cook food although their bills run just as high if not higher.

The savdust city people have expressed their dissatisfaction so generally and in such mandatory terms, that one of the commissioners (the city is still under the commission form of government with A. C. McHenry as mayor) has written to Mayor T. E. Welsh to see if Janesville will not join in a movement to get the units increased.

The commissioner, Charles F. Hart, proposes that a number of Wisconsin cities join together to ask the railroad commission to act, the expenses of an expert to draw up figures to be paid for jointly. Oshkosh is very much dissatisfied especially when the rates of gas have just been increased.

Welsh Wants To Be Fair
Mayor Welsh replies that he does not believe the gas plant here has had a fair trial—that he wants to wait and see if improvements now being made will aid matters. Complaints against the present gas supply have been quite general since the heat units were cut several weeks ago, but the mayor is not prepared to enter any exhaustive investigation until he sees what the company can do to remedy the situation.

He has written Commissioner Hart in part as follows:
"The ruling of the railway commission has not had a fair trial in Janesville for the reason at the time the ruling was made our gas company was not equipped to furnish sufficient gas for the needs, or to maintain a pressure high enough during the hours of the day when the maximum amount of gas is required for cooking meals. In fact the company had reached the limit of its production and the demands made by the large increase in our population and the necessity of a large amount of main extensions made it imperative that new equipment be installed."

Condition Being Remedied
"The company has been working to this end for a number of months and of course it goes without saying that Janesville has not had sufficient pressure to give the normal supply. This condition is being rapidly remedied by the gas company and from my own observation conditions are now very much better. I am not prepared at this time to go into the matter with you as I wish to be entirely fair to the gas company. But when the company has finally completed its main extensions and increase in equipment, should I find the service inadequate, I will be glad to join with you or any other city to see that the people have proper service."

AIRPLANE COMPANY WANTS LOCAL DATA

Preparatory to a visit of its representative to the company to find the possibility of obtaining a level field of about 35 acres, near the city. The letter is, as yet unanswered.

TWO FROM HERE IN RACE FOR ELECTION TO REPRESENT STATE

Members of the local United Brethren church will cast their ballots Sunday for delegates to represent the Wisconsin conference in the General conference which will convene in Indianapolis next May. The annual conference is entitled to two ministerial and two lay delegates in the General conference. These will be elected from six candidates in each class who were nominated at the Annual Session last September.

The names of the ministerial nominees are as follows: C. W. Bechtolt, Reedsburg; S. E. Taylor, Monroeville; Thayer, Bloomer; L. E. Warren, Reedsburg; W. H. Adams, Turtle Lake; and J. Hart Truesdale, Janesville.

The lay nominees are—W. E. Gillingham, Richland Center; William Dolan, Vestby; Edna Puckert, Janesville; Melvin Jacobson, Richland Center; Grace Whitney, Madison; and Mrs. Albert Outcalt, Docksbridge.

The balloting Sunday will not be done within the regular services. Votes may be cast 30 minutes before and 30 minutes after each regular session.

Non-resident members are privileged to vote by signing their own name on the back of their ballot and cast it on the date set for the election. Ballots have been sent to all such. Members who are ill or otherwise unable to come to the church may secure a ballot from Mrs. B. B. Wood by request, and vote similarly to non-resident members, all ballots to be presented to Mrs. Woods.

It is desired that every member voice himself in this election. The General conference is the governing body of the church. This is the individual member's opportunity to perform his part in that government.

Labels Foods For
The postoffice department of the German Government has requested that parcels of foodstuffs sent for relief of Germans and residents of Germany from the United States be labeled with the following inscription: "Wein, Umstellung für die Armen" which means in English to open the package and distribute among the poor.

Many Americans have complained that foodstuffs which were unduly returned to them in the United States if these words in German are printed on the parcel, in case it cannot be delivered will be opened and given to the needy.

Even Lake Michigan Is Against Home Brewers
Milwaukee—Home brewers here who are bemoaning the absence of the "kick" from their fished product have awakened to the fact that Lake Michigan and the health officials are in league against them. When informed recently that "the lake water was totally demoralizing the home brewing industry," Health Commissioner Ruhlman extended his sympathy but stated that the chlorine would nevertheless be added to the water.
